Additional Handling fee 19235

- Use of Economy Standard Letter Pro requires giving the recipient information of the letter in the format accepted by the Sorting Service and in the correct section of the Sorting Service message
- The Sorting Service will automatically add Additional Handling (19235) in the mailing list for letters with address details in the wrong format
- Additional Handling (19235) is added as of January 1, 2019 in the following cases
 - Name, mail address and city/municipality:
 - A field is in incorrect format *)
 - One or more of the fields are empty
 - Postal code
 - The code in the field does not contain five digits
 - There are spaces between the numbers
 - There are letters in the field

*) The information required for the field is missing (name, mail or city/municipality). However, the Additional Handling fee will not be charged if there is a spelling error in the name, mail address or city/municipality or if, for example, the apartment number is missing.

There may be specifications to the terms of determining an Additional Handling fee (19235) in 2019.
